Purpose of the seminar

In this online seminar you'll learn about impacts caused by the COVID-19 pandemic on international supply chains. We will talk about the aftermath in regards to future management decisions. Our experts will present possible solutions and point out innovative new ideas how to deal with the situation at hand. Your benefits are:

- Learn about the necessary changes in supply-chain management.
- You'll get practical advice concerning the changes to be made in regards to risk and compliance.
- Insight on how and when you can get out of existing obligations.
- Contracts and clauses to cope with the new situation are presented.

Participants

This online seminar is directed towards corporate and in-house counsels, professional buyers, sales representatives as well as compliance- and riskmanagers in the industrial and/or retail and wholesale sector. Consultants in this field attending this online seminar will also receive indispensable knowledge.

Technical requirements

To attend our live-webcasts you'll either need a mobile device or a standard PC equipped with sound - ideally it is also equipped with a webcam and a microphone. The device you are using has to have a stable internet connection.
